Doing the Right Thing

There are times when it becomes difficult to be both an advocate and a service provider. It is the individual desires and needs that must play the dominant role during these times....and always.

When we consider the Center for Medicaid Services, (CMS) Final Rule and Pennsylvania’s Transition Plan, it is clear that we are engulfed in a time when it is difficult to be both an advocate and provider of services. Revised service regulations and the Office of Developmental Program’s, (ODP), initial Community Participation Supports Proposal have many talking, many applauding, and others concerned about the proposed changes and the impact of such on consumers who currently participate in services.

But, as recently as last week, the Office of Developmental Programs revised their Community Participation Proposal for Adult Day Services. ODP dropped the 50 and 75% community participation requirements. The revised proposal requires consumers to spend 25% of service time in community by September 2018. This proposal also includes the adoption of a community integration measure that will become part of a three year provider performance review. It is intended that consumers and families will have the performance review information available when choosing an Adult Day Service provider. Individual exceptions for time in the community will be considered based upon medical, mental health or behavioral needs and/or a condition that affects one’s ability to participate in services in community.

Discussions among individuals, their families and providers are sure to continue. Arc administrative and departmental staff will continue to talk, and plan. Together we have shared our enthusiasm as well as our concerns for challenges to community participation as a meaningful piece to the whole of Adult Day Services. There are challenges. But we are used to challenges. Individuals with IDD, their families, and The Arc have faced many. Through years of change we have learned that concerns cannot be a deterrent to doing the right thing. Regardless of the issues we face, as we analyze and discuss the requirements of revised regulations and community supports, we arrive at the same definition of what is the right thing.....

We will provide meaningful options in quality of services, tailored to individual wants and needs.

We will help individuals and their families to fully understand these options so that they can make informed choices for themselves.

We will be objective and impartial to particular services as to not have an impact on individual and family decisions in favor of one support over another.

The Arc’s mission defines quality as supports that offer inclusion in community. Children and adults with intellectual and development disabilities have a fundamental, moral and civil right to belong in their community. How can we successfully and meaningfully provide this opportunity? We will discover the answers together and we offer these opportunities as we continue to insure the safety and well-being of those who rely on us for their service. This is the right thing.

President's Message

"Things do not happen. Things are made to happen." – John F. Kennedy

As you read through this issue of The Articulate you will learn about a number of interesting happenings going on under The Arc umbrella. Activities and events related to services, consumers, staff and volunteers. Things that are making a positive impact on the lives of the individuals and families served by this organization.

The professionals and volunteers associated with The Arc are an amazing group; who have committed themselves to a world that demands so much more than just the hours logged on a time sheet. They know the people they serve – the consumers, families and caregivers and tailor services to their needs. They know that a cookie cutter approach doesn't work for everyone. They know each person is indeed an individual who has the need and right to be treated as such.

There are many things stirring in Harrisburg and Washington that threaten the programs and services – the "things" made to happen by The Arc and other providers of support for individuals with special needs. In the face of fiscal challenges the need to examine all aspects of government and the services it supports is both appropriate and necessary. But the answer is not to roll out formulaic mandates that ignore the unique requirements of individuals, and to disregard the time tested approaches to services offered by the professionals who work in the field every day.

Over its history The Arc has improved the lives of thousands of northeastern Pennsylvanians. That didn't just happen – It was made to happen!

Bob Durkin

Exec's Corner

There are two items that I would like to discuss with you today. They are the closure of Hamburg Center and what CMS (Center for Medicaid Services) calls "the Final Rule" on Community Inclusion for people with I.D. (Intellectual Disabilities).

The Arc applauds the Department of Human Services on the historic decision to close Hamburg State Center and to help current residents transition to community-based living.

"Moving away from a segregated, state-center model of living shows Pennsylvania's commitment to investing in the lives of people with disabilities," said Maureen Cronin, Executive Director of The Arc of Pennsylvania. "We've seen countless instances of people with disabilities – some of whom lived their entire life in a state center – flourishing when they move into the community. Individuals with disabilities deserve the opportunity to experience life in their community, just like anyone else."

Many individuals who live in Pennsylvania's state centers have not had the opportunity to experience life in the community. Experiences that connect people to their community – such as going to a coffee shop, attending a local place of worship or choosing where and who to live with – are not experiences that individuals living in state centers can routinely access. Their main interactions are with staff and other people with disabilities.

"We appreciate the leadership of Secretary Ted Dallas and Deputy Secretary Nancy Thaler, as well as the immense effort from advocacy groups, that led to this decision," said Ken Oakes, President of The Arc of Pennsylvania Board. "Inclusive, authentic community living has been a core priority of The Arc since our inception. We know that transition is never easy because we've helped people move out of state centers, and we are committed to supporting these individuals and their families in whatever way we can to make this a successful move to community-based living."

The Arc of NEPA stands ready to help in any way possible.

The second issue is "The Final Rule" from CMS. Let me first quote the rule that all states that receive Medicaid money for people with I.D. must follow. This statement concerns settings where people with I.D. are served.

The setting is integrated in and supports full access of individuals receiving Medicaid HCBS to the greater community, including opportunities to seek employment and work in competitive integrated settings, engage in community life, control personal resources, and receive services in the community, to the same degree of access as individuals not receiving Medicaid HCBS – The HCBS Rule (Home & Community Based Services).

Each state is required to develop a plan to come into full compliance with this rule by March of 2019.

The major themes are to:

- Expand alternatives to 24 hour residential services
- Improve access, quality and accountability in residential services
- Promote employment to comply with the HCBS rule
- Increase community participation also to comply with the HCBS rule
- Open opportunities to people with Autism and not I.D.

The major issues and worries are:

- Community participation
 - ✓ Thresholds for participation
 - ✓ Thresholds for size of facilities
 - ✓ Time frames
 - ✓ Where will the money come from
 - ✓ Where will the staff come from
- Behavior Support in the residential rate
- Adding Autism as an eligibility group
- Provider rates and direct care salaries

As you can see, change is afoot. How all of this will evolve will take time and family, consumer and provider cooperation is a must... and so are additional financial resources to make all this happen.

Nancy Thaler made a comment recently that "we can't wish this away because PA has to report compliance with the HCBS rule and federal auditors will use the HCBS rule as their audit standard"... and finally, according to Mrs. Thaler "Status Quo is not an option".

There is "so" much more to come.

Please stand by!

Respectfully Yours,
Donald W. Broderick
Executive Director

Vocational Services at The Arc-NEPA

Vocational Services at The Arc-NEPA provide individuals with IDD, quality, job-related programming with many different types of employment skills needed for the ever changing and growing competitive workforce.

These employment skills include advancing and improving an individual's general maintenance skills, house-keeping duties, packaging and stocking work, secretarial work such as shredding, mailing orders, and ordering supplies needed for our facility and completing piece by piece contract work. We see the individuals working are building relationships with their co-workers and developing a team work based structure.

In addition, the newest area of employment skills being taught and learned within the program is vending. The Arc pre-vocational team has been teaching our individuals a specific set of skills in order to maintain a successful vending machine service within our very own facility. The vending machine business teaches job skills to the men and women interested in this particular field of employment (vending services). These working employees are shown and quickly learn the necessary skills to successfully inventory, purchase, retrieve, count money and survey the consumers who use this service. The survey asks what they would like in their vending machine(s). They enjoy the experience and are being paid to do a job. Our vending service is growing and has the potential to be not only beneficial to the folks we serve but also to the community.

The folks who participate in the vending machine business are learning about community relations, marketing, financial planning, business management and future growth. The entrepreneurs (day program participants) will be a part of the soliciting new business while ensuring the quality of service for the current placements. The consumers will be providing a service to the community, as well as, earning a paycheck for themselves.

Amanda and the other guys and gals will stock and go shopping for the supplies for the vending machine. They enjoy their work duties and perform them with efficiency. We received a grant from the Scranton Area Foundation to purchase additional machines. We are very grateful for their continued generosity. Thank you from all of at The Arc-NEPA!

A Loving Tribute to a Sophisticated Lady

This is Barbie Kaschak.

Barbie was beautiful, glamorous, stylish, sweet, loving, and funny. She herself had a great sense of humor. Barbie loved to dress up, get her makeup done, and have her hair styled.

She took pride in her appearance with both her stylish clothing and jewelry.

Barbie will be remembered for her love of coffee, and ice cream, which her staff and friends always had in abundance just for her.

She enjoyed meeting and greeting new people, and socializing with her friends. Barbie showed a genuine concern for all those around her.

She loved going out to lunch and just being outside, or in the van for aimless drives. Barbie was an avid shopper, as well. She also liked animals especially dogs.

Barbie so loved her Direct Care Staff, Maryann Schlessler, as well as all of the Robinson Park Ladies.

She was a sweet woman and will hold a special place in all of our hearts for years to come.

Barbie will be remembered always!

World Down Syndrome Day

World Down Syndrome Day (WDS), observed on March 21st every year, is a global awareness day which has been officially observed by the United Nations since 2012. Each year the voice of people with Down syndrome, and those who live and work with them, grows louder.

Down Syndrome International encourages our friends all over the world to choose your own activities and events to help raise awareness of what Down syndrome is, what it means to have Down syndrome, and how people with Down syndrome play a vital role in our lives and communities.

WHY MARCH 21?

The date for WDS being the 21st day of the 3rd month, was selected to signify the uniqueness of the triplication (trisomy) of the 21st chromosome which causes Down syndrome.

HISTORY OF WDS

WDS was first observed in 2006 in many countries around the world and Down Syndrome Association Singapore launched and hosted the WDS website from 2006-2010, on behalf of DSi, for global activities to be recorded.

(Actual photo of our LOTS OF SOCKS logo socks)

On December 19, 2011, the United Nations General Assembly declared 21 March as World Down Syndrome Day. The General Assembly decided to “designate 21 March as World Down Syndrome Day, to be observed every year beginning in 2012” and “invites all Member States, relevant organizations of the United Nations system and other international organizations, as well as civil society, including non-governmental organizations and the private sector, to observe World Down Syndrome Day in an appropriate manner, in order to raise public awareness of Down syndrome”.

#MyVoiceMyCommunity – Enabling people with Down syndrome to speak up, be heard and influence government policy and action, to be fully included in the community

In 2017, we will focus on enabling people with Down syndrome (and those who advocate for them) to speak up, be heard and influence government policy and action, to ensure that they can be included, on a full and equal basis with others, in all aspects of society. See more at: <https://worlddownsyndromeday.org/>

MLK Day of Service 2017

An Amazing Day of Giving Back! Thank you to the Corporation for National and Community Service and The Arc of the United States for giving us this opportunity to be a part of a greater whole. Our folks worked alongside Jenny Sladen and Ilyse Kramer from The Arc-US and the young adults in the United Neighborhood Centers of Northeastern Pennsylvania Leaders in Training Program to stock the shelves at UNC-NEPA Angel's Attic Food Bank. The supplies will feed between 500-600 families until the end of February/beginning of March. We learned a lot from this experience such as: this was just one day of help, our help is needed everyday...people are very giving, kind and generous, just ask; our folks are hard workers and love what they do; Angel's Attic is an awesome and welcoming space where people are given what they need; Jenny and Ilyse were two of the kindest people to meet and we were grateful for their help and their visit was wonderful. So, I propose to keep the momentum going, let's fill the food bank all winter and ensure folks have what they need to keep their bellies full. We are an exceptional community where no one should ever go to sleep hungry. Thank you Gene Calibani for inspiring us to help others and educating us on what great neighbors we have. You are always remembered. #TheArcMLK17

Celebrating Abilities

During the month of March, The Arc celebrates Intellectual/Developmental Disabilities (I/DD) Awareness Month. We are commemorating the progress toward improving the lives of people with I/DD and also highlighting the challenges that remain in achieving full inclusion for people with I/DD. Nearly a quarter of a century ago, The Arc's advocacy effort led to President Ronald Reagan officially proclaiming March to be Developmental Disabilities Awareness Month. This national declaration generated renewed respect and increased awareness for people with I/DD and their families.

Year round, The Arc works to promote and protect the rights of people with I/DD to live, learn, work and play as valued and contributing members of their communities. We fight for legislation to remove barriers to full participation and inclusion and have been successful on many fronts. But sometimes the barrier has nothing to do with the width of a doorway or an employer's hiring practices. Sometimes the barrier is as subtle as a nervous glance from an uninformed person in line with you at the market.

The Diocese of Scranton celebrated Developmental & Intellectual Disabilities Awareness Sunday with a Mass at the Cathedral of Saint Peter in Scranton on Sunday, February 19th with Bishop Joseph C. Bambera as the principal celebrant and homilist. This liturgy prayerfully celebrates the many gifts people with developmental and intellectual disabilities bring to the Church and the community. Catholic Television broadcasted the Mass.

Measure-Up Campaign 2017

Dear District Deputy, Grand Knight, Faithful Navigator and Knight of Columbus members;

Hope this letter finds everyone well. The Measure-Up campaign will be in full swing for most of you and we are hoping you are having a very exciting year for this fund raiser. You raised $116,000 last year and you have set a goal for $130,000 this year!!! That is amazing! You have shown your extraordinary support toward us and for that we are grateful.

As you may know, your involvement in the Measure-Up Campaign and the money it raises goes directly to the children and adults with intellectual and developmental disabilities (IDD) and their families. This year your continued efforts will continue to support the many programs offered at The Arc-NEPA. Our folks require all different levels of assistance and we provide individualized attention to each person in our programs.

Please join us and together, we will continue to offer excellence in service that is filled with quality, value, understanding, friendship and respect which enriches the lives of the people we serve. Thank you for being a friend to The Arc. As you may know The Arc provides year-round, 24 hours a day, 7 days a week service to hundreds of individuals through a variety of programs.

As in the past Measure-Up monies have benefitted hundreds of Pennsylvanians with IDD and their families. Over the 38 year relationship with The Arc, local Knight's councils have raised over $5.9 million dollars for chapters of The Arc!

 Your participation in Measure-Up is critical.
 We count on you and the children and adults we serve, count on us! ******

Thank you for your continued support and generosity. Your State Arc Chairman is Ralph Trofino and you are free to contact him by phone or email. Please let us know if you have any questions, concerns or if you need anything - supplies, store contacts, etc. - 570-346-4010.

Patrick T. Quinn

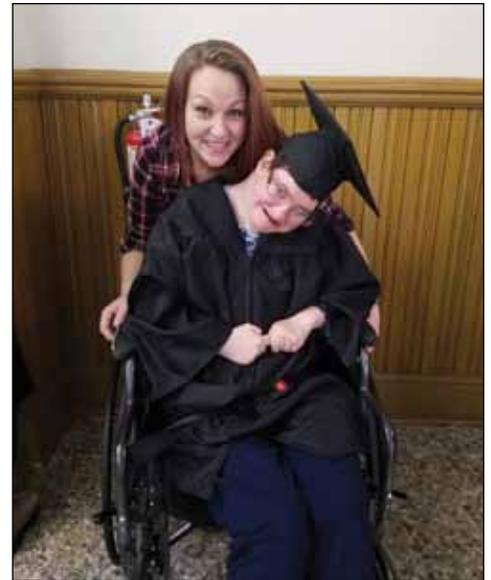

In the last edition of The Articulate, Maryclaire Kretsch wrote about the changing times in our line of work. Change takes time. Change can be hard to adjust to. What holds us back from making the changes that the CMS Final Rule dictates that we make? Fear of the unknown? I've been reminding people lately that we are The Arc- we are the organization that was founded by families at grass roots levels who fought for change in the first place. They fought for the right to education, in our chapter's case, and formed this organization in the process, joining The Arc chapters from all over the country to continue promoting change, in areas including but not limited to, rights, employment, leaving institutions, and acceptance in the community. I submit that the change our fore -bearers fought for decades ago was more daunting than the changes we hope to put into motion now. So, The Arc, by our very nature, history and value system, has been leading change all along.

In January, I attended the National Leadership Consortium on Developmental Disabilities at the University of Delaware. This was a powerful, eye opening experience. I was reminded throughout my stay at their Leadership Institute that promoting real change in the ways in which we support people should not simply happen to come into compliance with the CMS Final Rule. Rather, it's simply the right thing to do! The folks we support have always had their own civil rights struggles, as other groups have. We have to be their champions. It's essentially a social justice issue. Our folks deserve every real life opportunity we can present to them. Nancy Weiss, Co-Director of The National Leadership Consortium at Delaware wrote the following:

"...All I can think is that to make a major shift in the way we support people forces us to come to grips with the fact that, with the best intentions, with every desire to do right by the people we support, we've been underestimating them, isolating them, and holding them back. That's an uncomfortable thought, but surely not so uncomfortable that it justifies our allowing the lives of the people we support to be stranded permanently in a time gone by..."

We have some good momentum going here at The Arc. We're seeing more and more real community involvement for the folks we support. These efforts require participatory leadership- everyone getting involved. We have collaborations with local food banks, Lackawanna College, The YMCA, and The Lackawanna Heritage Valley Authority, to name a few. In addition, staff are finding new and creative ways to introduce those we support to new experiences. A steering committee dedicated to making recommendations for embracing the community has formed. Anyone is welcome to join, and everyone has an equal voice. The only requirement is that members should have a passion for escaping mediocrity and embracing a future that is alive with all sorts of possibilities for those we support. Because, you can't find inclusion on a GPS, but you can sure find segregation with one. "Community" is not a destination; it's a sense of belonging. We need to create a culture where we truly are person-centered, not one where we only talk about it. I look forward to working with all of you and learning from your gifts, talents, and insights.

Robinson Park Happenings

Submitted by Barb Day and the ladies of Robinson Park

Welcome Aboard. Make your Life Anew! Robinson Park is on the move. The Travel Club Members here at the Park packed their bags and were on the road. First Stop, Italy where took a ride in the gondola, and sampled some Italian cuisine. Then we were off to the Nation's capitol, Washington, D.C. Of course we had to vote and tour The White House, which by the way is pretty nice. Then we took a trip to Disney World, in order to help Mickey Mouse Celebrate his Birthday on Nov. 18th. We even have our own homemade passports which get stamped everywhere we go.

Of course we can't forget the tremendous talent that exists throughout the Arc Family as we diligently began work on our 17th. Annual Christmas Show, presented by The Arc Angels. This year the theme was Toyland. We will never look at the song "O Come All Ye Faithful" the same way again. Our Angels performed it with an island twist, where even Joseph, Mary, and baby Jesus along with the Wise Men were dancing to the beat with the audience. Then much to our surprise, right before our very eyes, the show finished out with all of the toys coming to life.

At the Park we celebrate birthdays. We interact with outside visitors, as you can see in the photos. Some are human and others are of the animal family. A little music and dancing goes on every day. We celebrate life in general.

In our spare time we help our folks learn a little about today's modern technology. We do this with, smart phones, Kindles, iPads, and FACETIME.

Crafts are at the top of our agenda, also. We have staff teaching and helping folks to learn various crafting skills. Sewing, needle point, cutting and pasting so the end product not only becomes a proud accomplishment but a treasured gift.

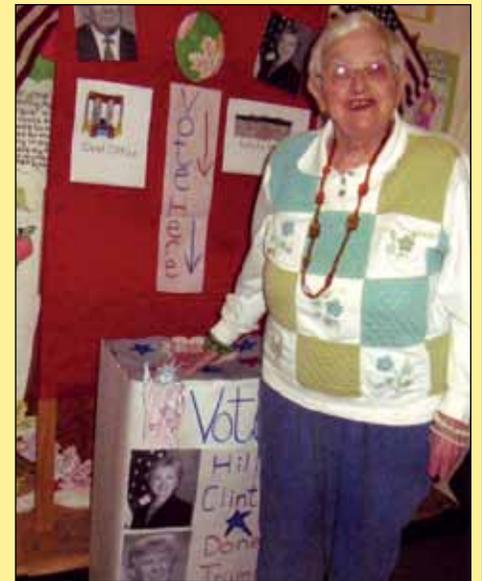

Oh and by the way we like helping others. We brought in the Lil Tykes kiddos and had a little Thanksgiving Party with them. Our folks engaged with them by making a craft together, reading a story to them, and then enjoying a snack together.

We participated in Operation Christmas Child. The Aktion Club Members were able to fill 15 boxes for children overseas with Christmas goodies. This was our 2nd year for this project. We also helped with the Martin Luther King Jr. Food Drive, and the Snowflake Tree for Christmas. Our folks like nothing better than to help others in need. Then we catch 40 winks!

This year all the folks here at the Park have decided unanimously to skip the winter season of 2017. We did this by decorating our environment around us with all the fixings of a Tropical Island. Palm trees, the ocean, sand and of course sunglasses. On our Annual Inspection Day off we went to the Isles of Hawaii, hula skirts and all. We learned all about the Island via video on our iPads. Tropical drinks were in order along with a little sprinkle of coconut on some homemade cupcakes. Next music was provided by our own fabulous in house entertainer, Janice Gambo. Boy those hula skirts were just a swinging in the breeze, along with our hips. Everyone had a blast including the Inspector herself, Judith Orr. Then we need to refuel and catch another 40 winks... after all we are the Senior's Program! LOL

If ever in our neck of the "Woods," please stop in and share some of the Love!

The Arc of Pennsylvania Commends Governor Wolf's Budget Initiatives

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE
February 7, 2017

CONTACT: Maureen Cronin, Executive Director
717-234-2621 mcronin@thearcpa.org

Harrisburg, PA: The Arc of Pennsylvania is elated with Governor Wolf's proposed improvements to intellectual and developmental disability services in the 2017-2018 state budget. Governor Wolf's proposed budget includes initiatives that will increase the opportunities for Pennsylvanians with disabilities to thrive in their communities. The proposed $26.2 million in waiting list funding will ensure 820 high school graduates receive supports so they can transition to community living and employment instead of "graduating to the couch". Additionally, it will provide funds to serve 1,000 people currently waiting for emergency services through a new Community Living waiver option.

Executive Director Maureen Cronin states that "The Arc of Pennsylvania enthusiastically supports the disability funding increases in the Governor's proposed budget, particularly the commitment to young adults graduating from high school. This is the type of investment Pennsylvania needs to ensure our disability service system supports individuals and families while using taxpayer dollars efficiently. Investing in services for young adults after they graduate means they will have a better chance at securing employment, creating a community network, and building skills - instead of needing higher-cost services later. The proposed waiting list initiative is a huge relief to families who have children graduating soon as well as adults currently waiting for services. This is the most forward-thinking budget for people with disabilities in at least a decade, and it is clear the Governor heard the concerns of people with disabilities, families, and advocates."

President of the Board, Ken Oakes, particularly notes the proposed budget's approach to improving cost-efficiency of disability services. "The Governor's budget proposal promotes community inclusion, which is not only what individuals actually want but is also between three to five times less expensive than living in institutional settings. The proposed budget makes a clear effort to ameliorate underfunding and cuts to intellectual and developmental disability funding that have weakened the community service system over the past few decades." The Arc of Pennsylvania has also supported the Department of Human Services' recent plans to close Hamburg State Center and combine state departments, administration initiatives that promote fiscal responsibility.

The Arc of Pennsylvania appreciates how leadership in the General Assembly has shown strong commitment to Pennsylvanians with disabilities and their intent to ensure individuals have the support they need to seek employment, build community connections, and keep families strong. The Arc of Pennsylvania looks forward to working with the General Assembly to ensure the final enacted budget is one that empowers the most vulnerable in our communities.

For 68 years, The Arc of Pennsylvania has worked to ensure that children and adults with autism and intellectual/ developmental disabilities receive the supports and services they need, are included in their community, and have control over their own lives. The non-profit organization is part of The Arc US and is affiliated with 33 local chapters. The Arc of Pennsylvania advocates for quality services and to protect the rights of our constituency, provides information and resources to families, and increases public awareness of disability rights issues.
